

What is the status of CCRL?

- The Governor of Maryland has issued a Stay At Home order effective March 30 with no end date. As such, CCRL staff is working from home. Mail is being checked two times each week.

What is the status of the Laboratory Inspection Program?

- The Laboratory Inspection Program is currently suspended until further notice.

What is the current status of the PSP programs?

- Blended Cement: The deadline for this sample has been delayed and is currently May 29th. (see below)
- Concrete: The cement and sand components have been packaged and shipped to all domestic participants. The first stone has also been packaged but is being held. We will alert participants by email when shipping is resumed.
- Portland Cement: The final report for 215 & 216 is still on schedule to be released by Friday, April 3rd.
- All remaining programs: We will assess the impact on all remaining programs and adjust their time frame as necessary, when we are able to resume work at our facilities.

Will there be an extension for the Blended Cement sample?

- The deadline for this sample has been delayed and is currently May 29th. This will be evaluated again at the end of April.

Will this impact our accreditation?

- AASHTO is currently under a similar status as CCRL with all staff working from home. We are working with AASHTO to navigate through these uncertain times. More detailed information is available at <http://aashtoresource.org/>

Is CCRL able to ship miscellaneous samples like Flow Material and C989 Materials?

- CCRL is unable to ship samples at this time.

Is CCRL able to ship extra samples or blind samples?

- CCRL is unable to ship samples at this time.